SITUATION SUMMARY

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

Weather of Concern

- Red Flag Warning in effect from 1300 hours this afternoon to 2300 hours this evening which will downgrade to a Fire Weather Watch Monday afternoon through Monday evening for areas in Siskiyou and Modoc Counties

Active Weather Warnings, Watches and Advisories by County:

http://www.wrh.noaa.gov/sto/brief/wwa_bc_cal.php

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

A disturbance off the central California coast will continue to bring a slight chance of showers or thunderstorms to the mountains through the week. Meanwhile, overnight low clouds and fog will plague the coast, but will pull back to the immediate coast during the late morning and early afternoon.

Medford Weather:

Most areas will be dry this morning, although isolated showers in Modoc County this morning as a weak upward moving trough moves through.

Reno Weather:

Low pressure near the California coast will keep the threat for showers and thunderstorms through much of the upcoming week. Thunderstorm coverage will be more isolated today, followed by an increased chance for stronger storms with locally heavy rainfall possible Monday through Thursday.

San Francisco Weather:

A persistent marine layer and light onshore flow will result in widespread night and morning low clouds, patchy fog, and possible drizzle in coastal locations through much of the week. Otherwise, dry weather conditions will persist with temperatures gradually cooling through midweek.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Gradual cooling can be expected over the next few days along with daily afternoon and evening thunderstorms mainly over the mountains. Thunderstorm coverage may increase over the mountains, northern Sacramento Valley and surrounding foothills on Tuesday and Wednesday as an upper low over the Eastern Pacific moves towards the California coast.

Hanford Weather:

Scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms will continue over the high country of the southern Sierra Nevada through Monday then only a slight chance each afternoon through Wednesday. A weather disturbance will cross the area on Thursday bringing a chance of thunderstorms to the Sierra and a cooling trend late next week.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Upper level low pressure off the coast will maintain night through morning low clouds and fog in coastal and most valley areas through Tuesday with temperatures generally near to slightly below normal. Low pressure will approach and move into central California Wednesday through Friday, bringing a deeper marine layer and generally below normal temperatures. Some warming is expected next weekend as the upper low moves away from the Los Angeles area.

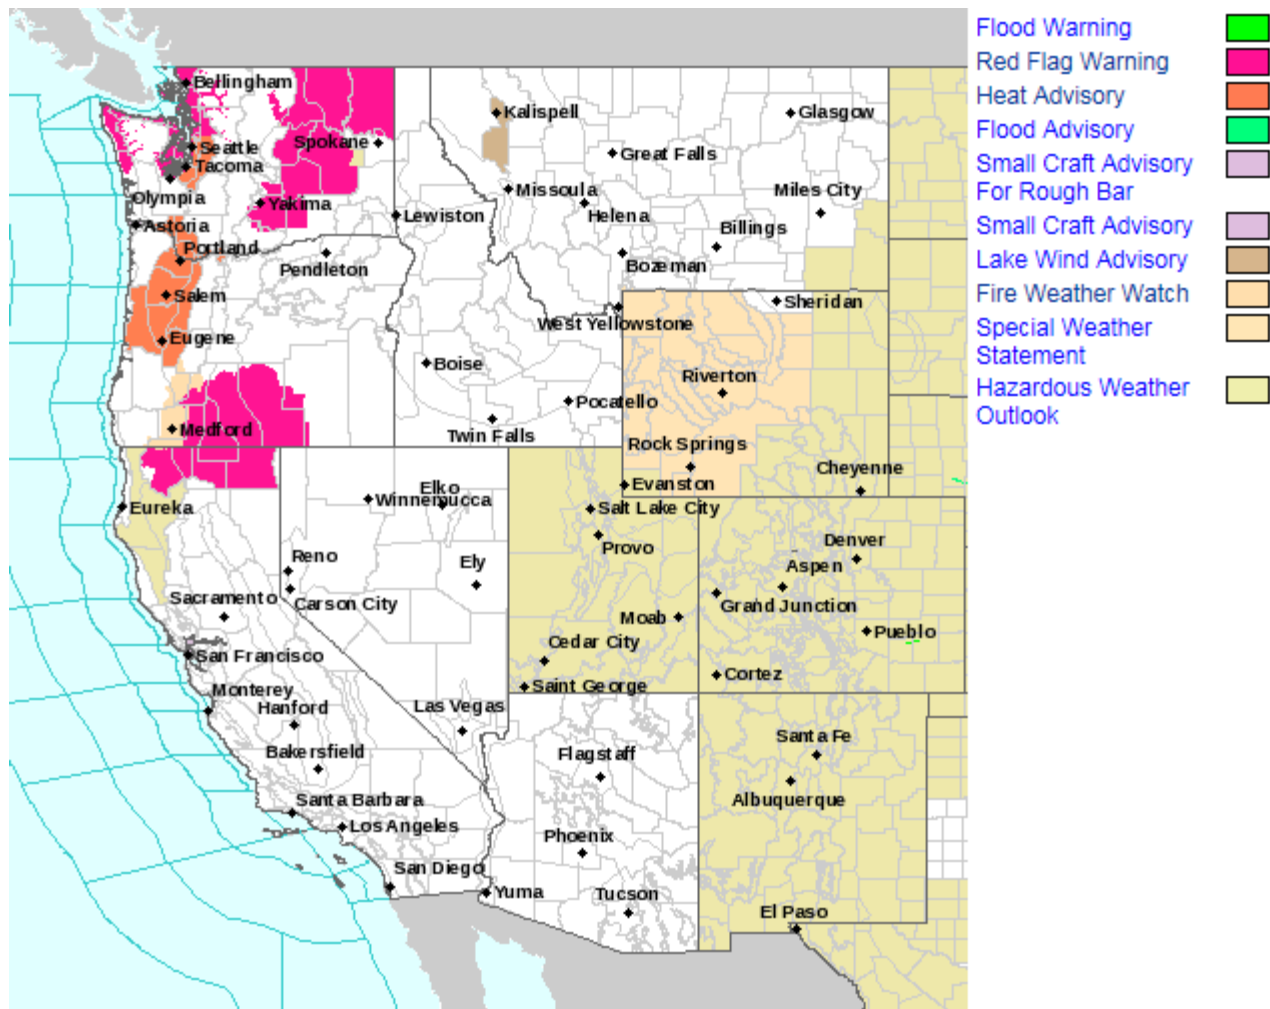

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

High pressure over the interior southwest states will keep a flow of mid-level monsoonal moisture into southern California into Monday with the mountains of southwestern California on the western fringe of this moisture. This will maintain a slight chance of afternoon and early evening thunderstorms near the mountains through Monday. A weak low pressure system off the California coast will move slowly inland the mid to latter part of the week. For next weekend, high pressure to the east will begin to expand westward across southern California bringing warming to near seasonal levels and a shallower marine layer

Southeast California Weather:

Afternoon temperatures are forecast at near normal values through the upcoming week.

FEATURED TRAINING:

- MGT-315 Enhanced Threat and Risk Assessment: 21-22 July, 2015

The Critical Asset Risk Management course helps participants answer those questions by teaching critical components of risk management. Through a combination of lecture, facilitated discussion, and group activities, participants will learn how threats, vulnerabilities, and consequences determine risk, and are given an opportunity to practice the fundamentals of conducting vulnerability assessments by conducting on-site assessments of select local facilities. Additionally they will identify potential mitigation measures associated with their findings and work together to develop and present a risk assessment report.

- MGT-414 Advanced Critical Infrastructure Protection: 24 July, 2015

In this course participants will enhance their skills to formulate considerations for the resiliency of jurisdictional assets leveraging cross-sector partnerships. These considerations will enhance the whole community's ability to manage the risk associated with critical infrastructure protection efforts. The course will implement the National Preparedness Goal by facilitating the development of Resiliency Action Plans, involving all jurisdictional critical infrastructure partners. Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to increase infrastructure owner/operator participation in jurisdictional planning, organizing, equipping, training, and exercising critical infrastructure protection efforts.
